PRICE FIVE CENTS

RECITAL OF BRUTAL MURDER FAILS TO MOVE BOYS

SIRE OFF SLAIN BOY TELLS HIS TALE TO JUDGE

Part of Evidence Will Never be Given to Public Review

Chicago, July 23.—(By The Associated Press.)—Calmly, but with eyes moistened by tears, Jacob Franks, wealthy father of the 14-year-old victim of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, testified on the witness stand today the story of his boy's disappearance.

Called by the state, after State Attorney Robert E. Crowe, in his opening statement, had demanded again the death penalty for the two brilliant 19-year-old college youths, Franks answered in a firm voice the queries of the prosecutor and identified the small remnants of clothing and other personal possessions found on or about the body.

The defendant sat apparently unmoved through the state attorney's oration, and left the room almost jauntily when court adjourned for luncheon. They laughed audibly as they started back to their cells.

They came into court for the final act in the big criminal drama at 10:30 a. m. Leopold appeared unconcerned. Loeb was pale and an almost startled expression widened his eyes and dropped his jaw as he passed to his chair. The bulky safe of documents placed near a closed door had to be tilted to make a passage way for the two youthful defendants.

Mr. Franks was called back to the stand when the afternoon session opened, but had not arrived and Dr. Joseph Springer, a coroner's physician, was called instead.

He told of the "posting" of the body of Robert Franks and the cause of death as revealed by the post-mortem examination.

He said he found acid burns on the face and two "small sharp wounds one on each side of the forehead. There were also bruises on each side of the back of the head caused by "some blunt instrument," he said.

Traces of strangulation were also discovered, Dr. Springer testified. He said the blow on the head and suffocation caused death.

Dr. Springer added that death had occurred "from two to five hours" before he examined the body.

Dr. Axel Benson, who added Dr. Springer was called.

"There is no use of going over the same ground," said Judge Caverly.

Dr. Benson was excused.

Mr. Frank then resumed the stand. He told of receiving the telephone message to get into a taxicab which the kidnappers sent for him, but said he did not do so.

"I knew then my boy was dead," he said.

Over objections by the defense, he told of getting $10,000 and preparing it in accordance with instructions in the ransom letter.

Mr. Crowe explained to the court this was intended to show the standing of the Franks in the community.

Mrs. Flora Franks was then called. A valley of tears, which marked the mother's progress to the stand. She wore a black satin cloak over a black dress, only a silver pin in front and trimming of silver braid on the coat relieved the somberness of her costume. She told of seeing her boy go to school for the last time, of receiving the mysterious telephone call from "Johnson" that her son was "safe" then went through her worst ordeal by identifying shoes, belt buckle and other articles.

A stocking, which Mr. Franks had said was "like those worn by my son," was known only too well by the mother.

"That was my boy's stocking," she said chockingly.

Chicago, July 23.—(By The Associated Press.)—The court room of John R. Caverly, chief justice of the criminal court of Cook County was the center of interest in Chicago today. There it was that Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, actors of two of the city's wealthiest families, faced the bar with the plea for mercy upon which are based their hopes of escaping the hangman's noose. Long before they came into court, the building was the scene for hundreds.

Only a fraction of these could gain places in the court room and only those who had business with the courts could pass even the outer doors, scores of curious jammed the sidewalk.

Police guards at the building's portals, at the elevators and again at the door of Judge Caverly's court room kept them back.

3000 ATTENDED CEREMONIAL OF KLAN LAST EVE

Band Concert, Display of Fireworks, Talks Part of Program

More than 3,000 persons, men and women, attended the annual summer ceremonial of the Ku Klux Klan east of Dixon last evening. A count of the cars which began entering the grounds shortly after 6 o'clock and continued until a late hour showed the number to be close to the 1,500 mark.

A member of the national speaker's bureau from Chicago gave a very interesting address, expounding the principles and purposes of the Klan. The program was well arranged and was carried out without delay. One feature which was outstanding was a wonderful fireworks display. A band concert also provided entertainment throughout the evening.

The field had the appearance of a large circus ground, being electric lighted and accommodating numerous booths. In all it was the largest meeting that has been held in this vicinity and the program attracted delegations from various northern Illinois cities and villages, who came with cars decorated. A large class of candidates were naturalized at the closing of the program.

Coolidge Begins His Speech of Acceptance

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, July 23.—Republican campaign activities in Washington today simmered down to conferences between President Coolidge and various leaders and to preparation for the ceremonies to be held here three weeks from tomorrow for the purpose of formally notifying Mr. Coolidge of his nomination.

Mr. Coolidge was prepared to continue his discussion of the conditions with state leaders whenever executive business permits. He has made it plain that official business is to come first.

Arrangements for notification ceremonies have been made and with his desk well cleared of official business, Mr. Coolidge was ready today to begin work on his acceptance speech. He has not indicated how long it will be, but has intimated that it will be an exposition of the record on which he will appeal for support in the November election.

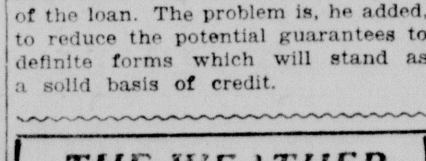

American Banker States Dawes Plan Will Succeed

By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, July 23.—The inter allied conference will undoubtedly be successful and the Dawes plan will be given its chance to solve Europe's ills despite the present differences between bankers and the conference delegates over guarantees for the 40,000,000 pound sterling German loan.

A leading American financier today told The Associated Press before several days have been in the closest talks with conference proceedings. This authority declared there was no question among bankers regarding the existence of ample guarantee which will insure the comparatively small sum required for the service of the loan. The problem is, he added, to reduce the potential guarantees to definite forms which will stand as a solid basis of credit.

SURVIVORS OF SHIP DISASTER ALL THANKFUL

Four Deaths Only Human Toll of Ships' Collision

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, July 23.—Smiling faces and thankfulness that the fortunes of the sea had been in their favor, were expressed by the survivors of the steamship Boston, rammed off Point Judith, R. I., who returned here yesterday. They came on the steamers Priscilla and Providence of the Fall River line.

Equally happy were the hosts of relatives and friends who met them—except for one elderly couple. The passenger list of the Boston bore 640 names. Four are known to be dead. The rest were rescued by other vessels.

Bride on Honeymoon, Dead
Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Silbert scanned the crowd from the two boats. As they returned to their home they learned that their daughter, Mrs. Oscar Green, a bride on her honeymoon, was one of the four crushed in her berth by the bow of the Swift-arrow.

Many, who landed in non-descript costumes or with some belongings they were able to take into the life boats, bore slight injuries.

The impressions they retained of the crash when the Swiftarrow appeared out of a dense fog to bring death and consternation to one of the finest coastwise liners, were as varied as the crowd.

Some remarked it as a horrible nightmare, others took the adventure calmly, and a few considered it a lark. But all were thankful for the calmness of the night, the discipline of the passengers and the quick answers to calls for help.

Rule of Sea Observed
"The rule of the sea, women and children first" was said to have been rigorously observed.

Herman Redfield, Roxbury, Mass., told of the cool-headedness of three girls whose names were not learned. He said that soon after the crash, passengers who ran on deck were surprised to see three girls dancing to the music of a phonograph. Others joined them and the temporary distraction kept many passengers occupied until the more serious work of rescue was undertaken.

She Mined Alone for Many Years Among the Mountains
Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jester, of Nevada, passed through this city last week on a motor trip. They are true prospectors, having grown up in the west and have been in the mining business since childhood. Others joined them and the temporary distraction kept many passengers occupied until the more serious work of rescue was undertaken.

They have a camp called "Happy Day" and it is known throughout the western country. Mrs. Jester is a woman of 72 years and for several years lived alone in the hills, where she searched for gold.

They mine and wash their own gold and, according to the story, they have washed out over $2,000 worth of gold in less than a month in a vein they recently struck.

Child Victim of Burns Relative of Dixonites

Little Lenore Rodebaugh, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Rodebaugh of Freeport, whose death Sunday as the result of burns received July 4th, was chronicled in last evening's Telegraph, was a granddaughter of Mrs. Rhoda Fister and a niece of Mrs. Grace Smith of Dixon, her mother having been Miss Besie Mack of Dixon. The little one received her fatal burns when she sat on a firecracker, which exploded, igniting her clothes. The child's mother had been shooting the firecrackers for the children.

Ten Cattle Killed in Rail Wreck at Albany
Ten animals were killed when a carload of cattle left the tracks of the Milwaukee railroad near Albany, in Whiteside county, on Sunday. The train was rounding a curve and the car left the tracks and rolled down a forty foot embankment and struck head on in the ditch. The cattle were all thrown together in one end of the car and when released it was found that ten of them had died, some of suffocation.

Owls to Hold Big Picnic
at Oregon, August 15th
Oregon, Ills.—The fifty-fifth annual Owl picnic will be held at Margaret Fuller Island on Friday, August 15, being the first Friday after the full moon. The picnic this year will be more than the usual spread, in honor of the fifty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the order. All Owls and ex-Owls will be included in the invitation. So far as known, there is one surviving charter member living and he is Scott Gale of Oregon.

Passenger Steamer Goes
Aground off Maine Coast
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Rockland, Maine, July 23.—The passenger steamer James T. Morse of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., which left here early today for Bar Harbor struck on Crotch Island, near the entrance to Stonington Harbor, shortly after 8 o'clock, in a thick fog. Some of the passengers were landed in boats. None was in danger.

RAILROAD ACTS TO STOP DAMAGE TO TELEGRAPH

Complaints Against Unclad Swimmers Registered

Special agents of the Illinois Central railroad were stationed along the right of way on both sides of the river this morning, to remain for several days. In an effort to put a stop to malicious acts which have seriously hampered the telegraph system, Chief Special Agent Briggs of Freeport was here this morning conferring with Chief J. D. Van Bibber and announced that the railroad property would be guarded with a view of arresting and prosecuting those who have been creating the trouble.

Insulators on the telegraph wire system on both sides of the river are being broken by boys throwing stones or shooting them, he declared, and while replacements have been made repeatedly, the practice has continued to a point where arrests and fines will be forthcoming.

The special agent also complained to the police of the swimming beach at the north end of the bridge, where men and boys have been in the habit of swimming without being clad in bathing suits. The beach was visited this morning and bathers who were not properly clad were advised to purchase bathing suits at once. Complaints from the passenger traffic department have led up to the action taken at this popular point on Rock river here.

PITTSBURGH-PLUS STEEL PRICE IS DECIDED UNFAIR

Federal Trade Com- mission Orders it Abandoned

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, July 23.—The Pittsburgh-plus system of determining steel prices is held by the Federal Trade Commission to be not only an unfair method of competition, but a violation of the Clayton Act in that it is a means of price discrimination.

In an order directing the United States Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries to abandon the system, by which rolled steel products shipped from various points are quoted at the Pittsburgh base price plus freight charges from that city to destination, the commission asserts that it is a method of price-fixing not founded on the law of supply and demand.

Operation of the system, the commission adds, tends to retard the steel business in all centers except Pittsburgh, to lessen and eliminate competition, and to increase costs to consumers to an amount that reaches $30,000,000 a year in the case of farmers in eleven western states alone.

A dissenting opinion, holding that the "law does not require absolute freedom of competition" nor "enjoin the observance of sound economic principles," was filed by Commissioner Gaskill.

Rochelle Phone Co. to Buy Forreston Mutual
(Telephone Special Service)
Springfield, Ill., July 23.—A joint application was filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission today asking for authority for the Rock River Telephone Co. of Rochelle, of which J. W. Hamlin is president, to purchase the property of the Forreston Mutual Telephone Co. of Forreston, of which Hiram Dewall is president. The Rock River Telephone Co. also asks for authority to establish a five-cent toll charge between Forreston and Mt. Morris and Oregon, and a ten-cent toll charge between Forreston and all other exchanges of the Rock River Telephone Co.

Dixon and Sterling I. N.
U. Employees Will Picnic
The employees of the Dixon and Sterling districts of the Illinois Northern Utilities company will gather Saturday at Lowell or Assembly park in an afternoon and evening picnic and outing. Employees and their families will enjoy the day and are to be provided with ample entertainment, the feature of which will be a return baseball game between teams picked from the two offices. Manager "Brownie" Salzman is putting the Dixon employees through stiff practice in hope of retaining the championship. The Freeport district offices have also accepted a challenge for a game with the Dixon office forces in the near future.

Princeton Men Bought
Davis & Pell Grocery
The Davis & Pell grocery has changed hands and is now under new management. Marion and Lester Eichmeyer of Princeton have purchased the stock and fixtures and have taken immediate possession. They have had several years of practical experience in the grocery business at Princeton.

Council Did Little.
Very little business of importance came before the regular weekly meeting of the city council last evening, only routine matters being presented. A representative of a Texas oil jobbing company appeared before the council and explained a plan which he hopes to put into effect here, but no action was taken.

Mother Drowns Her Un-named Babe: Her Mind Believed Gone

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Ill., July 23.—Mrs. Lulu Morgan, parole patient from Peoria State Hospital at Peoria, today drowned her unnamed baby in a cistern here and then calmly told her friends about it.

She was taken into custody by Deputy Sheriff Norris and returned to the state hospital. Due to the condition of her mind, it is said criminal charges will not be pressed.

WHEAT JUMPED SENSATIONALLY DURING THE DAY

Reports of Rust in Can- ada Cause Eight Cent Raise on 'Change

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, July 23.—Smashing of high price records began again in the wheat market today after several days' pause. The new opening of values was accompanied by advices that black rust is menacing the crop in Canada. Shortly before the close today all deliveries of wheat had touched the highest yet this season and showed a jump of about eight cents from the day's low point soon after the opening.

"Manitoba has a widespread black rust infection," said a message received from B. W. Snow, former U. S. assistant secretary of agriculture. The telegram was from Winnipeg and added:

"Black rust infection is clearly developed in the southern district of Manitoba and is beginning to show in the north. It is clearly enough and extensive enough to make it a menace under favorable weather conditions. The weather today is hot and moist."

THOUSANDS FELL IN CITY FIRED ON BY FEDERALS

Brazil Govt. Claims to be Gaining Upper Hand Now

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Buenos Aires, July 23.—A dispatch to La Nacion from Santos early this morning, states that fighting continues around Sao Paulo. An official communique from Rio Janeiro states:

"The federals are continuing to progress, occupying new positions. Necessary measures to counteract probable intentions of the rebels have been adopted."

How thousands fled from Sao Paulo in panic during the bombardment of the city by the Brazilian federal forces, July 11, is described in a copy of Estado de Sao Paulo, of July 12 just received here.

The paper says that from early dawn, July 11, shells fired by the federals began falling into populous districts doing much damage. Streets were filled with terrified people seeking to escape. Some quarters of the city were completely deserted.

SAYS REVOLT IS GROWING
Montevideo, July 23.—The captain of the Greek steamer Andros which arrived Tuesday from Santos declared that the Sao Paulo revolution is gathering strength and apparently triumphing despite official denials of the Brazilian government.

Motorists Protest Way
They're Treated in Wis.
An investigation into the arrests and the imposing of heavy fines on Illinois motorists in many Wisconsin cities is to be asked of the Badger state highway commission at Madison. The appeal comes as the result of many protests received by the Rockford chapter of commerce and the police.

Escaped in Darkness.
Wilson, who up to late afternoon had been unable to identify his assailant, declared one of the negroes who gave him the name of Ike Brown of Memphis, had done the shooting.

At this assertion the crowd again threatened to attack the jail and several shots were fired in the air. Sheriff Hudson, under cover of darkness, took the negroes away by automobile.

The flight was not made known until the sheriff's automobile was well on the road to Murphysboro where the party stopped, and on advice of Franklin County, authorities continued to Menard.

Refusing to believe the negroes had been taken away, the mob continued to gather well into the night, firing into the air at intervals and during one demonstration, shot out all the light within the vicinity of the jail. No one was injured.

Menard, Ill., July 23.—Officials of the Southern Illinois Penitentiary here today denied a report that Sheriff Hudson of Pulaski County brought three negroes to the prison for safe keeping. The sheriff's party left Murphysboro last night with the penitentiary as their announced destination.

J. E. McBride of Los Angeles, Cal., is expected to arrive in Dixon tomorrow to attend the funeral of the late Andrew Graff. Mr. McBride and Mrs. Graff are brother and sister.

NEGROES, TWICE THREATENED, SAFE IN STATE PRISON

Southern Illinois Mob Bent on Lynching, Foiled in Night

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Mound City, Ills., July 23.—With night restored after a hectic day and night of threatened mob rule and with three negro suspects in the slaying of Daisy Wilson, 18, of Villa Ridge, safe behind the walls of the Southern Illinois Penitentiary at Menard, Company K of the 130th Infantry, Illinois National Guard, prepared to return to Cairo at noon today.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Mound City, Ills., July 23.—Following a series of narrow escapes from mobs which twice threatened their lives, three negroes recited today in the Illinois state penitentiary at Menard, Ill., harrowed by their experience.

The three negroes, two of whom claim residence in Memphis, and one in Cairo, Ill., arrested yesterday as suspects in connection with the slaying of Daisy Wilson, 18, Villa Ridge girl, were taken to Menard as a last resort measure by Sheriff Hudson of Pulaski County, after the jail at Mounds and later at Mound City, where they had been held, were surrounded by threatening mobs.

As a result of these demonstrations, Governor Small ordered the immediate mobilization of Company K, 130th Illinois Infantry to proceed here and aid in restoring order.

The crime, for which the negroes were held, occurred early Tuesday at Villa Ridge. Two negroes called at the home of I. C. Wilson Monday night stating they wished to make several purchases at his grocery store. While in the store Wilson was attacked by the negroes. His daughter rushed to her father's assistance and was shot. The negroes escaped with a few pennies.

Several hundred men led by Sheriff Hudson scoured the country-side for hours. The search proved fruitless. The two Memphis negroes were arrested by Illinois Central agents at Mounds, Ill., and were immediately taken to Villa Ridge for identification. Wilson, who had been severely beaten, was unable then to identify the negroes. A mob formed in Villa Ridge and the sheriff, fearing trouble, took the men to the Mound jail while other crowd quickly gathered and threats were voiced to lynch them. When trouble was imminent, H. F. Moreland, a Ku Klux Klan organizer and special deputy sheriff, offered an eloquent plea for the negroes' lives, concluded by a prayer, during which the crowd stood with bared heads.

Crowd Followed Suspects.
With the crowd quieted temporarily the two negroes were brought here. The crowd followed in automobiles.

The sheriff deputized a score of men and an armed guard was placed in the jail with orders to shoot if an attempt was made on the negroes' lives.

During the day search for suspects continued. An inquest failed to solve the mystery of the shooting and returned a verdict of death at the hands of an unidentified negro. A score of negroes were arrested and released, with the exception of one negro brought from Cairo who was held for further questioning.

Late in the day, the crowd which had been augmented by many from cities in southern Illinois, again threatened.

Wilson, who up to late afternoon had been unable to identify his assailant, declared one of the negroes who gave him the name of Ike Brown of Memphis, had done the shooting.

At this assertion the crowd again threatened to attack the jail and several shots were fired in the air. Sheriff Hudson, under cover of darkness, took the negroes away by automobile.

The flight was not made known until the sheriff's automobile was well on the road to Murphysboro where the party stopped, and on advice of Franklin County, authorities continued to Menard.

J. E. McBride of Los Angeles, Cal., is expected to arrive in Dixon tomorrow to attend the funeral of the late Andrew Graff. Mr. McBride and Mrs. Graff are brother and sister.

FUNERAL OF A. J. GRAFF WILL BE FRIDAY A. M.

Pioneer Member Dix- on F. D. to be Laid to Rest in Oakwood

The funeral of the late Andrew J. Graff will be held Friday morning. Short services will be conducted from the Jones funeral home at 9 o'clock and from St. Patrick's Catholic church at 9:30. Interment will be in Oakwood.

Andrew J. Graff was born in Tiffin, Ohio, Sept. 23, 1857, and while very young came to Dixon with his parents, remaining here until his sudden death Monday morning. He learned the trade of harness maker from his father, the late Henry Graff and followed this vocation for several years. Of late years he had been in charge of the harness and saddle department at the E. H. Rickard & Son store on Galena avenue.

Mr. Graff was one of the founders and charter members of the Illinois Firemen's association and was one of the past vice presidents of that organization. He had been active as an officer and committeeman of the state organization since its birth and was well known throughout the state. Many of the older members of the association will be present to attend the last rites of one of the oldest and most active members.

Fireman for Many Years.
"Andy," as he was best known to his hosts of friends, was a member of Dixon fire department for a period of almost 17 years. He served as chief of the old volunteer fire fighting force for a period of 11 years and it was through his untiring efforts that this department became one of the best in northern Illinois. When the department became a paid force under the city's administration, he continued at its head for a period of a year. Of late years he had been very active in the state organization.

Surviving to mourn his sudden passing are his widow, Mrs. Andrew J. Graff; one daughter, Mrs. Walter Horst; two sons, Thomas J., and Andrew J., Jr., all of Chicago; two sisters, Miss Margaret Graff of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Mary Pitcher of Allen, Neb., together with three grandchildren also survive. He was an active member of Dixon council of the Knights of Columbus.

Armed Lunatic Causes
Scare in Alta, Illinois
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Peoria, Ill., July 23.—A large force of deputy sheriffs was this morning hurried to Alta, Ill., ten miles north of here, to lay siege to a dwelling there, in which an armed lunatic is said to have barricaded himself.

Calls were received from a number of Alta residents, informing officers that the man had made threats to wipe out the village and that he had barricaded himself in the house, where a hastily organized posse attempted to disarm him.

A shotgun and a revolver are said to be the armament carried by the supposed crazy man. With these he is reported to be holding at bay members of a citizens committee, which is endeavoring to surround the house.

In the event that the man resists the sheriff's forces, an attempt will be made to drive him from his place of refuge by the use of gas bombs, the sheriff said.

Officers here were unable to learn the name of the demented man or the nature of the dwelling which he has barricaded himself but the Alta authorities asked for reinforcement and stated they feared a tragedy if the man was not overpowered and disarmed.

Cross-Country Hikers
Stop in Dixon for Day
Cliff Hartman and Roy Grosser of Philadelphia, two young men who are hiking across the continent, arrived in Dixon this morning and will remain here until tomorrow. The boys left Philadelphia, June 21, last year and have been staying in Chicago for a time. They are earning their own way. This is the second trip of its kind for Hartman, who completed "highwaying" from coast to coast the first time at Frisco on Sept. 3, 1922. At that time he left Philadelphia with $3 and when he arrived at Frisco he had made over $100 above his expenses.

Eastman Buys Keenan
Barber Shop this Morn
S. C. Eastman has purchased the John Keenan barber shop under Rowland's drug store and assumed possession today. The new owner contemplates extensive improvements, installing entirely new fixtures and having the interior remodeled and redecorated. Modern new chairs will be installed and the shop when completed will be one of the best in the city.

Had Operation Today.
Ogden Moore, ex-service man, submitted to an emergency operation at the Dixon hospital this morning about 3 o'clock, and is now fairly comfortable.

Allen Smith and family expect to move to California to reside soon.

BOYS CALMLY LISTENED TO DEATH DEMAND

Show No Emotion while Crowe Recited All Details of Crime

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, July 23.—The kidnapping 14 year old Robert Franks by Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, was a "strictly commercial proposition" the abductors wrote in their letter to the father of their victim.

The letter read today in the open of the hearing before Chief Justice Caverly to determine the penalty for two college youths shall pay for the death of young Franks, to which the second time they affirmed their lawyer's plea of guilty.

The state's attorney, Robert Crowe, in a formal opening statement recited the story of the boys' plotting for the "little fellow's" murder from what he said was the inception of the plot in the minds of the brilliant sons of prominent families here, last fall.

Details All Received.
Every detail of the planning, preparation, foreseen by the young conspirators, was reviewed by the prosecutor.

He told of the perfection of details for their plot May 21, a year and of a careful deliberation afterward on the question of should be their victim.

The sons of numerous wealthy families were considered before young Franks was agreed upon.

The defendants were styled "calculating murderers."

Defendants Listened Calmly.
Listening to the state recital of details of the boy's death with a parent equanimity of spirit, the defendants sat calmly in their chairs behind the counsel.

Frequently one would whisper to the other as various details of their crime was herided to court.

Leopold frequently sat virtuously motionless for periods of ten or fifteen minutes, during the recital.

Loeb frequently adjusted his stylus, moistened his lips with tongue and picked at specks on sleeves. Jacob Franks, father of slain boy, sat quietly beside his attorney without showing outside feeling.

"Of course you are going to insist on the death penalty as every appropriate opportunity," Mr. Crowe's associate attorneys during a brief recess said.

Some Evidence in Private.
At one point the states attorney alluded to evidence he would ask "present to the court in private."

"The nature of the evidence," he said, "as will be a question, is such that it would be proper to reveal it in open court."

He made no allusion to the subject matter of such evidence.

Coming to a dramatic recital of first show of weakness by Loeb during his first questioning by State Attorney Crowe, the prosecutor said his voice and paced nervously before the bench.

Today's Market Report

Wheat Advanced During Opening Trading Today

Chicago, July 23.—Wheat quickly advanced today after a wavering start, due chiefly to active buying and an announcement that a complete survey of crop conditions in Argentina indicated only 40,000,000 bushels this season as against 168,000,000 at year. Opening prices which ranged from 1c decline to 1c advance, Sept. 1.23@1.24 and Dec. 1.24@1.25, were followed by a sharp advance. Corn advanced with wheat. Corn offerings were reported to have been sharply curtailed. After opening 1.8c to 1c down, Dec. 1.84@1.85, the market rose to well above yesterday's finish. Oats rallied, influenced by offer receipts. Starting at 1/2c off to 1/4c advance, Sept. 44 1/2@45, the market on hardened. Provisions were strong.

"BOBBED HOSIES" THE RAGE HERE—

Socks are now sold in the feminine
as well as the masculine gender.

The grammar of the hosiery counter
owes its increased scope to the arrival in Dixon of "bobbied hosies." A "bobbied hosie" is a stocking that has sustained a permanent roll.

Shy experiments were made several years ago in the marketing of "bobb-
ied hosies," but this summer the style
has come to stay, salesmen of hosiery
for women assure.

"Rolled" on Machine.

Damsels, whose knees drooped for lack of sunshine and fresh air, need
no longer "roll their own." The "bobb-ied hosies" are "rolled" on a sewing
machine before they leave the factory.

The decapitated stockings only
reach to a point several inches below
the knees. At the top of each stocking a roll of silk is doubled back and hemmed twice. The stocking may be held up by a garter concealed beneath
this roll.

"The Bee's Knees."

The "bobbied" stockings closely resemble the half-hose worn with bathing suits. They are the original
"bee's knees."

The innovation brings hope for
"Pop" when he reaches the end of his supply of socks. He can don a pair of "bobbied hosies" from his wife's wardrobe.

Civilization awaits the day when
"bobbied" stockings will be worn by lads in short pants, who strive to anticipate their elevation to long trousers.

Science may predict the development of a race of women with "brow
bonny knees," as hardened to the elements as those of any Highlander.
Away with skirts! Bring on the kilts!

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

Drying Lettuce.

Dry lettuce quickly by putting it

in a cheesecloth bag and swinging the
bag in a wide circle for a few moments.

Clean Chamois Skin.

To clean a chamois skin wash it in gasoline, or soap in tepid water with pure soap.

Wash in Soda.

Waxed or oiled cloths should be washed in soda solution and rinsed
thoroughly.

Painting Woodwork.

Fill up holes in your woodwork with
putty, plaster of paris or glue.

Whitens Linen.

Linen may be whitened by soaking
in buttermilk for two or three days

and then rinsing in cold water. If it can be dried on the grass in the sun
the results are almost magical.

Mary Taft to Wed R. A. Smith

Pear Salad (Individual).
One large Bartlett pear, 1 1/2 slices
canned pineapple, 1 tablespoon chopped pecans, 1 tablespoon cottage
cheese, 1 candied cherry, 1 heart lettuce.

Pare the pear and cut out the core. Chop one-half slice pineapple and fill cavity. Make the cottage cheese into tiny balls and roll in chopped nuts. Put the pear on the slice of pineapple, surround with a wreath of leaves from the lettuce heart and put a cheese ball in each leaf. If any nuts are left after rolling the cheese
balls add them to the pineapple stuff-
ing. Top pear with cherry and serve.

Consignee Can Sign for All Parcels at One Time

By a recent ruling of the postal authorities, all parcels which are insured must be signed for before they can be delivered. In the past a carrier could deliver the package without this written receipt, but this cannot be done any more. If the carrier
takes out an insured parcel and there is no one at home at the place it is addressed to who can sign the receipt,
then it is taken back to the postoffice
and must be called for. This makes it very inconvenient for a great many people.

There is a way, however, where
this inconvenience can be avoided. By calling at the postoffice and signing
an order, you may have these insur-
ed parcels left at your home or store,
whether there is anyone there or not
to sign the receipt. It is only necessary to call at the postoffice once and sign this order, and the same holds good until you revoke it. Many will follow this method of procedure.

Davis Thinks LaFollette Will Not Hurt Democrats

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Dark Harbor, Isleboro, Maine, July 23—Under a program calling for the completion before his return to New York of his address accepting the democratic presidential nomination,
J. W. Davis began speeding up today
the task of laying out the general

subject matter in his mind.

The nominee and his advisers are undertaking a careful assessment of the general situation in the light of the entry of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin into the political arena.

They anticipate that practically all of the republican insurgents in both
the senate and house will lend their support to La Follette and from the democratic side in the senate they would no be surprised if Senator
Dill of Washington threw his lot
in with Senator Wheeler of Montana,
who has taken second place on the La Follette ticket.

Mr. Davis has made clear that in his judgement the movement in support of the independent candidate
will not hurt his candidacy in the least.

The La Follette movement was one of the subjects which came up
yesterday at the conference with the democratic nominee, and Homer S.
Cummings, democratic national committeeman from Connecticut.

While determined to conduct a vigorous speaking campaign, Mr. Davis
will depend on the radio to reach
thousands of voters in the country
who otherwise would be unable to hear his voice.

A recent invention permits the branding of tomatoes without breaking their skins.

The United States received 11,260
seal skins, and 2,614 gallons of seal
blubber from the Pribylof Islands last year.

Distinctive Air

This frock of beige flat crepe
achieves an air of distinction by its unique insert of open-work embroidery
outlined with a row of ball buttons
that attach by means of loops. The dress itself, you will notice, is a perfectly straight tube affair with a Jenny neck and very short sleeves.
Detachable, but a part of the costume
is the wide and very lengthy scarf of self-material edged with the ball buttons. It is worn over a slip of the same color.

MAN, MISSING FOR 31 YEARS WRITES TO KIN

Relatives of Galena
Man Hear from Him
After Long Absence

Galena, Missing thirty-one years
and supposed to have been long dead,
Frank S. May, one time Galena resident, has finally been heard from. He is at Boston, Mass., he writes, and is well fixed financially.

At 17 years of age, May left his home in Galena in 1893, saying he was going to Freeport to secure employment. He afterward went to Rockford to work and then dropped
from sight.

Relatives conducted a search for
him for years, writing to the authorities in scores of towns where they thought he might have located and
also advertising in many newspapers.
They finally gave it up. In 1911 the father of May passed away.

Two Monmouth Papers Have Consolidated: New Plant

Monmouth, Ill., July 22—Announcement was made today of the consolidation of the Monmouth Daily Atlas, two old well established newspapers here under the title of the Monmouth Review-Atlas.

The newspapers, under the editorship of H. R. Moffet, for over 40
years, connected with the Review,
will be issued from the new Review plant. Most of Mr. Moffet's service to the paper has been in the capacity of editor.

The Review was established in December, 1855, and has had but
two editors, A. H. Swain and Mr.
Moffet.

A. W. Barnes, present publisher
of the Atlas will be business manager of the new organization. The Atlas was established in 1846.

The capital stock of the new corporation will be $1 0,000.

Brunt of Campaign to Fall on Senator Wheeler

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, July 23—The brunt of active campaigning for the La Follette ticket probably will fall on Senator Wheeler of Montana, the vice
to take the stump in August in Boston and from then on to conduct a speech-making campaign of growing intensity.

Formation of definite campaign
plans awaits the selection of the committee which will direct all phases of the fight for votes.

The tentative plan which the campaign committee is expected to approve calls for Senator Wheeler to lead off the fight. He leaves tomorrow for a three weeks rest at a Cape Cod resort and probably will return to Washington for further conferences with Senator La Follette
before delivering his first speech in Massachusetts.

Late the Montana senator will swing westward through industrial states of the east and mid-west to the Pacific coast.

How extensively Senator La Fol-
lette will campaign will not be determined for several weeks. Some of his friends have advised him, in view of his recent illness, to go slow.
At any rate he will do no extensive speechmaking until September.

The English and Welsh birth rates
for April, May and June were the
lowest on record, except during the
war.

ADJUSTMENT OF CARBURETORS IS DONE TOO OFTEN

Difficulties Come in Attempts to Change
Mixture Often

Carburetor adjustment is resorted
to far too often by gas engine operators in their attempts to get more satisfactory performance out of their machines, according to A. L. Young,
of the farm mechanics department,
College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. There probably would be little temptation or need for changing carburetor adjustment if engines
always operated at approximately the same temperature regardless of load
or speed, never leaked air around
worn inlet valves and always maintained the compression they had when new. Unfortunately, however,
operating conditions change and all
too often an attempt is made to meet these varying conditions by varying
the mixture fed to the engine.

"If it is necessary to change the carburetor the engine should be at operating temperature when the change
is made. It is just as important to keep the engine at the proper temperature in the summer as at any other time. The majority of carbura-tion troubles will disappear, if the temperature of the cooling liquid is kept just below the boiling point regardless of operating conditions.

"The setting of the carburetor
which gives the engine some especially spectacular sort of performance
is not necessarily the best and 99
times out of 100 is not an economical
one. It is doubtful if a carburetor ever was made that would give the best mixture for all loads at all speeds
with the same setting. The sort of work the engine is doing most of the time must be taken into consideration and the carburetor set to meet
this condition.

"The habit of changing the carburetor setting every time the motor is started when cold should be avoided.
Correct seasonal setting is hard enough, not to mention doing it every half day. The motor always should be warm before called on to pull a load.

"It is important in saving fuel to use the proper grade of oil and not just any kind that is handy. It likewise helps considerably if about the
wise helps considerably if about the
same grade of fuel can be used all
the time, at least throughout the season.

"Trying to counteract poor compression or poor timing in the gas
engine by changing the carburetor setting always is a costly, fuel-wasting practice. There is no better way to save fuel than to keep the engine in fair mechanical condition."

Time Table Changes on North Western Announced

A change in the train schedule on the C. & N. W. railway was made effective on Sunday, according to local officials, No. 15, passenger from Chicago to Des Moines, Ia., due here at 10:08, will run only to Clinton and back; No. 13, west bound at 12:51, will
now make connections for Des Moines, Ia., instead of the passenger due at 1:06. Other changes were made at Clinton, but are not effective here.

The English and Welsh birth rates
for April, May and June were the
lowest on record, except during the
war.

GIVE THE BABY A CHANCE.

Most people seem to have the notion that
baby is just a stomach with arms and legs
tacked.

As long as baby's stomach behaves and its
food is assimilated, the average parent is satisfied. Food gets chief attention. It can't eat too much, but—

There is more to a baby than stomach, legs
and arms.

A baby has a liver, heart, lungs, brain,
nerves, thyroid, blood vessels. All these just grow, bud out into full blossom. They are just as important as the stomach, sometimes more so.

Baby's heart, lungs and brain should get
just as much attention as his digestive apparatus.

More than two and a half million babies
will be born this year in these United States.
Food is all-absorbing topic with most young mothers. Each year, fewer mothers can nurture their young. Each year, babies become more nervous—jumpy.

What's the reason? Doctors say the race
is paying the price for something, they're not sure what. Fast living, too much nervousness and hustle; these are at the roots of it all.

While watching baby's food, don't forget
that his lungs are working, taking oxygen
from the air and performing other duties. See that he gets plenty of oxygen—fresh air. He should have a room to himself, where he'll
not be inhaling poisons from the lungs of his parents.

Watch his nerves. Give them a chance.
Don't startle him by yelling, "Bee!" It's the way he jumps. But it's weakening
his nerves that are just beginning to function.
Startling a baby quickens his pulse, throws strain on his heart. He should always be dressed in a low tone. Keep him where he is as quiet as possible. Come into his line
of vision slowly, never with startling suddenness.

Above all, never waken him from sleep to show him off to visitors. Sleep is what he needs, even as much as food. Plenty of sleep,
quiet, fresh air and sunshine (with the glare never directly in his eyes or reflected)—give baby these, and in future years they'll be worth more to him than a legacy of money.
The lifetime health of most people is determined in the cradle.

NEVER AN END TO TROUBLES.

The butcher who keeps his hand on the scales and weighs it in with the steak may be known to many of you. And, no doubt,
you comment about the crookedness and petty cheating of this day and age when things
are going to the bow-wow.

Things, by the way, are always going to
the bow-wow—in all generations, all centuries.

More than 400 years ago a famous French
preacher named Oliver Maillard rose up in a pulpit and pronounced a curse on "those
ho, when they weigh, press down the scales
with their finger."

Preacher Maillard took a rap at "tavern-
keepers who sophisticate and mingle wines."
And after four centuries most bootleggers
are doing the same thing—adulterating liquor.

Maillard denounced "butchers who blow
up their meat, and who mix hog's lard with the fat of their meat." . . . The popular trick in 1924 is to feed the fowl a lot of corn just before killing it, or pour gravel in its gullet
to make it weigh heavier.

Maillard championed the downtrodden

poor by boldly telling his rich congregation:
"If you ladies and gentlemen who are batten-
ing on your pleasure and wear scarlet clothes,
I believe if you were closely put in a good
wine-press we should see the blood of the poor gush out."

The more a man studies the histories of
long-departed generations, the more impressed he is that people have the same basic troubles no matter in what century they live.

Troubles have no need. They seem to be perpetual. True, there is a never-ending fight against these chronic troubles. But the troubles persist despite no end of denunciation and indignation.

Are we really getting anywhere, through
the ages? Or are we just kidding ourselves.

Nature doesn't want us to have things
easy. Occasionally it may seem that life is a jail, troubles part of a sentence we are serving for sins of a previous existence. The real answer, of course, is that troubles and obstacles are sent to develop and bring out the best that's in us.

Preacher Maillard was simply wasting his breath.

BUILDING.

One industry that hasn't slipped is building. For May the 157 leading cities report
new building permits 10 per cent more than in May, 1923. Possibly increased prices represent the 10 per cent gain, but the actual physical volume of building is about the same
as a year ago, and that means it couldn't be much more.

The nation is spending three and a half billion dollars a year for new buildings, including homes. This pace, continued, will eventually lower rents.

HOW?

Germany is buying from other countries
about 60 million dollars worth of goods a month in excess of what she's selling to her export customers.

This puts her in the hole 720 million dollars a year.

Until the situation is reversed and Germany
builds up favorable trade balances by exporting more than she imports, there will not be much paid in the way of reparations.
Cash, not oratory and conferences, pays indemnities.

When Dawes is in the chair the senate will
know that it has a presiding officer.

Democratic conventions leave no stone un-
turned, no mud unthrown.

Keeping a friend in hot water will eventually cook your goose.

The next day Cutie Cottonfall woke up bright and early. That was really one reason why he went to bed so
early the night before.

And he got dressed in a hurry and
slipped on the trousers his mother had mended for him. But he never thought of looking in the pockets. If he had, he might have saved himself
a whole lot of trouble later.

He wanted to show the lucky brass
ring he had got on the merry-go-
round at Happy Go Lucky Park to all his friends.

Then after that he was going to the park and get his free ride, which
the brass ring entitled him to.

You had to be pretty smart to get the brass ring. It stuck pretty hard
and you had to pull like everything.
"I'll go and show Ben and Billy Bunny first," he said. "They'd never
believe me if I didn't show it to them!"

"I'll—why, hello, here, what's this?"
he cried, picking something up from the front porch. "Why it's my brass
ring! How did it ever get out here?
I must have dropped it when I was coming in last night. Lucky I found it before I got too far away."

So he put it into his pocket, not knowing that it was the very curtain ring his mother had been looking for and which she had dropped
when the postman came.

And away he went whistling to the Bunny house.

Ben and Billy were just up.
"Lookie what I got!" cried Cutie,
holding up the brass ring.

"Let's see, what is it. Where'd you get it? Gee! Aren't you lucky, though!"
was what they said and Cutie was prouder than ever.

"Yes," he admitted. "It was pretty hard work but I got it just the same."
"What! I wuz you," said Billy.

PICNICKING

It's one of those days when you
want to get out, 'cause your nerves
about worktime are kicking. You want to step forth in the open and shout, so you plan on a day of picnicking.

You pack up a bottle of olives and
jam; some eggs are put into the kit.
There's salad and pickles and weiners and ham. You pack while the kids throw a fit.

Then, last, but not least, there is coffee to make and it's poured in the old thermos bottle. You pile in the bus, which commences to quake as

dad puts his foot on the throttle.
Hurrah, you are off on a picnic-
ing spree! And shortly a nice place is found. You drive to a spot 'neath
a big shady tree and the lunch is spread out on the ground.

You should be at ease, but you're not, if you please, for the day is a terrible test. The kids run and shout
'till they wear you all out; yet you
call it a wonderful rest.

SYNOPSIS

Sir Oliver Trevelyan, renowned for his exploits on the Spanish Main, is betrothed to Rosamund Godolphin; but because of personal animosity growing out of land disputes the marriage is opposed by both Rosamund's brother, Peter, and her guardian, Sir John Killigrew. After his defeat by Sir Oliver in a duel Sir John's antagonism is somewhat lessened, whereas Peter's becomes increasingly more venomous. Sir Oliver, riding to Heston one day, stops at a smithy to have his horse re-shod. He is conversing with Sir Andrew Flack, the parson, and Justice Baine, a group of rustics gathered about, when down the slope rides Peter Godolphin.

CHAPTER III—Continued

It was said afterward by Sir Andrew and Master Baine that Master Peter appeared to have been carousing, so flushed was his face, so unnatural the brightness of his eyes, so thick his speech and so extravagant and foolish what he said. He was of those who turn quarrelsome in wine—which is but another way of saying that when the wine was in and the restraint out, his natural humor came uppermost untrammelled. The sight of Sir Oliver standing there gave the lad precisely what he needed to induce that evil humor of his, and he may have been quickened in his purpose by the presence of those other gentlemen. In his half-fuddled state of mind he may have recalled that once he had struck Sir Oliver and Sir Oliver had laughed and told him that none would believe it.

He drew rein suddenly as he came abreast of the group, so suddenly that he pulled his horse until it almost sat down like a cat; yet he retained his saddle. Then he came through the snow that was all squealed and muddled just about the forgo, and leered at Sir Oliver.

"I am from Arwenack," he announced unnecessarily. "We have been talking of you."

"You could have had no better subject of discourse," said Sir upon whom you can shift the quarrel. Come you to me and get the punishment of which that whip-lash is but an earnest."

Then with a thick laugh he drove spurs into his horse's flanks, so furiously that he all but sent the parson and another sprawling.

"Stay but a little while for me," roared Sir Oliver after him. "You'll ride no more, my drunken fool!"

And in a rage he bellowed for his horse, flinging off the parson and Master Baine who endeavored to detain and calm him. He vaulted to the saddle when the nag was brought him, and whirled away in furious pursuit.

The parson looked at the justice and the justice shrugged, his lips tight-pressed.

"The young fool is drunk," said Sir Andrew, shaking his white head. "He's in no case to meet his Maker."

"Yet he seems very eager," quoth Master Justice Baine. "I doubt I shall hear more of the matter."

CHAPTER IV
THE INTERVIEWER

The parson had notions of riding after Sir Oliver, and begged Master Baine to join him. But the justice looked down his long nose and opined that no good purpose was to be served; that Trevellyans were ever wild and bloody men; and that an angry Trevellyan was a thing to be avoided. The pedler deemed them a couple of madmen, whose ways were beyond the understanding of a sober citizen. The others—the fishermen and the rustics—had not the means to follow even had they had the will.

They dispersed to put abroad the news of that short, furious quarrel and to prophesy that blood would be let in the adjusting of it. This prognostication they based entirely upon their knowledge of the short Trevellyan way. But it was a matter in which they were entirely wrong. It is true that Sir Oliver went galloping along that road that follows the Penryn River and that he pounded over the bridge in the town of Penryn in Master Godolphin's wake with murder in his heart. COBBMEN TRIMMED YANKS AND TOOK AM. LEADERSHIP

Tigers Win Eighth Consecutive Game and Pass the Yankees

By the Associated Press.
Detroit's end of the American League season again is in the ascendency today as a result of the Tigers' second straight victory over the Yankees. A half game margin separates the two leaders, and Washington, by virtue of an even break in a double header, still holds third place at a distance of one game.

Babe Ruth's miff of Woodall's long drive after a hard run furnished the break which turned the tide of victory in Detroit's favor, and the Cobblers ultimately downed the Yanks 3-1. It was the Tigers eighth consecutive win.

Reaching Thurston for only five hits, Washington dropped the first of a twin bill to Chicago 4-0, but came back in the second to score a 4-1 decision over the White Sox.

Danforth had to come to Lyons' rescue in the ninth to enable St. Louis to maintain its 5-3 advantage over Philadelphia.

Boston Finally Wins.

Boston managed to win its first game in 12 starts by 4-3 after an eleven inning game with Cleveland. Pincus tied the count in the ninth by slugging out a homer with one on.

After dropping the first two games of the series to Cincinnati, the Giants found themselves with a vengeance, registering 17 hits for a 9-4 triumph. Barnes led the Reds to three hits for eight innings but yielded to Ryan in the ninth after the home team had bunched six singles for four runs.

McNamara pulled Boston out of the depths, holding Chicago to three safeties and one run while his mates scored three tallies in the initial effort of a duel. The Cubs took the second by 3-1. Hartnett cracked out his 14th and 15th homers of the season.

Brooklyn defeated Pittsburgh by 4-1 in a five inning game, stopped by rain.

St. Louis Drops Another.

A third straight defeat by Philadelphia by a margin of 5-2, launched St. Louis on a losing streak which bids fair to parallel its recent winning string.

Joe Schultz, former Cardinal outfielder now with the Phillies was presented with a traveling bag by some St. Louis friends and on his first trip to the plate knocked out a homer.

Bob O'Farrell, catcher of the Cubs, had to be taken to a hospital after a foul tip off Melnitz had jammed his mask into his forehead.

Cliff Heathcote, outfielder of the Cubs, pulled a muscle in his leg sliding into second base and had to retire.

Hollis Thurston of the White Sox registered his sixteenth victory of the season and his tenth consecutive win by defeating Washington in the first game of a double header.

A player who has not heretofore appeared on the links was in the first pair to start today, Chick Evans, having been admitted to match play on the basis of his championship which he won last year for the eighth time.

The match honors went to Art Sweet, Chicago, who scored 141 and his match with Eddie Held, St. Louis, followed Evans who was carded with Bob White.

R.F. Knepper, formerly Iowa and Princeton champion, who finished in a tie for second place with 143 matches with Dave Herron, Chicago, formerly national champion.

When the first match started this morning there were 21 Chicago golfers in the fray.

MT. CARROLL'S OLD JURY BELL TO BE RESTORED

Supervisors Order the Sheriff to Resume Use of Bell in Ct. House

Mount Carroll—Peeling out every morning and noon during court session the call for opening court, the old "jury bell" of this city is rounding out three quarters of a century of use in the Carroll county court house, according to D. A. Howard of Carroll county.

No one in Mount Carroll remembers when or where the bell was purchased, or when it was first brought into use. Oldest residents say that the bell resided in the court house tower as long as they can remember, and records show that it was in use on the old church which formerly stood near the site of the court house, long before 1850.

During the days of the rebellion, the bell was rung wildly with the arrival of every messenger who came with news of a northern victory, according to Cal M. Feizer, a local publisher. Whenever news of a defeat or local death came through the lines, the bell was tolled.

Court House Built in '58.
The old court house in which the bell is now hung was built in 1858, and the custom of calling court by the ringing of the bell remained in Mount Carroll as a sort of tradition.

Some years ago the sheriff decided that the ringing of the bell to announce court opening was a public nuisance, and the bell was dismantled under his orders. The public protest at this action brought the matter before the board of supervisors. In a regular meeting of that body a resolution was adopted directing that the bell be again installed.

The church, which first housed the ancient relic, stood for years after the Civil war, and was used as a hardware store and later as a meat market. It was burned down in the late sixties.

Old residents tell of the double use of the bell when the church was used as a court house and "meeting house." Weddings, funerals, celebrations of victory, as well as jury calls and supervisor's meetings were announced by the familiar clanging.

At the present time the bell hangs in the tower of Carroll county's stone court house, one of the oldest in the state. It rings every day during court session, and on special occasions it announces, just as it did three-quarters of a century ago, celebrations or bereavements of Mt. Carroll.

$200,000 FOR DIGGING UP JUNK THAT ONCE WAS GERMAN NAVY

By MILTON BRONNER

NEA Service Correspondent
London—To spend $200,000 on the off-chance of getting great piles of scrap iron and scrap steel from the bottom of the sea looks like risking a lot of money. But Cox and Danks, marine engineers of London, are taking the gamble on what promises to be the greatest sea-diving and ship salvaging feat in the world's history. British ingenuity will seek to overcome the results of German determination. Peacetime business will seek to make use of war-time preparation.

For the job the London firm has set for itself is nothing less than raising from the murky waters of Bonga Flow the once proud and mighty German battle fleet. When fished up, all it will be good for will be to tow it to shore, break it up and sell it as a scrap. And if the market is good, there is lots of money in scrap.

Five years ago, in compliance with the terms of the armistice, the German battle fleet steamed into the great harbor in the Orkney Islands to the north of Scotland. British and American battle fleets were on hand to receive them. The allied vessels had guns ready in case the Germans tried a last minute act of desperation, but everything passed off peacefully.

Then on June 21, 1919, the world was startled by the news that the Germans the night before had scuttled almost their entire fleet. Seven or eight battleships, five battle cruisers, eight light cruisers and 50 destroyers were sunk. They have been lying there rusting ever since.

Cox and Danks have a preliminary contract to raise 24 torpedo boat destroyers and two of the biggest battle cruisers, the Hindenburg and the Seydlitz, each of 27,000 tons. For this purpose they bought from the British government the great German floating dock which was used for submarine repairs by the Tenthons.

First Job For Deep-Sea Divers
This dock was cut in two, thus forming two pontoons, each over 200 feet in length and each fitted with workshops, electric power generating plants, an air compressor and gear used in ship salvaging work. Powerful cranes have also been installed. When all is ready the twin pontoons will be placed on either side of the vessel to be raised.

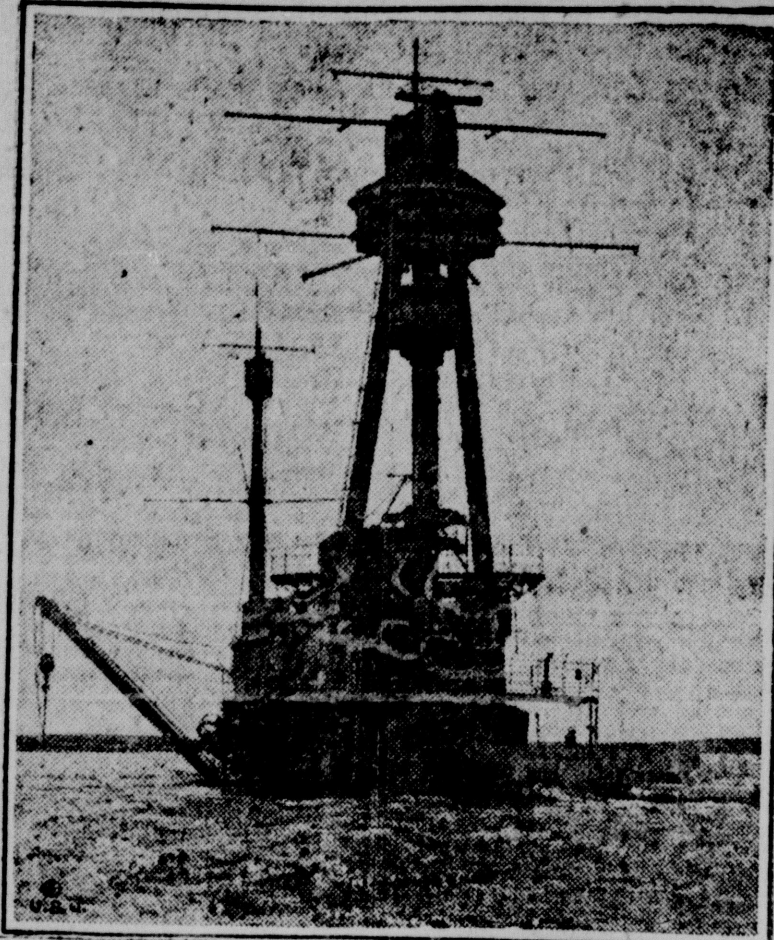

The first job is that of the deep-sea divers. They will go down into the hull of the vessel to be raised and systematically stop up every hole in her from hatchways to the sea-cocks which the Germans opened in order to sink the ship. Metal patches, concrete and wooden blocks will be used in this work of patching holes. Cuts will then be made in the various decks of the vessel and powerful electric pumps will be lowered. These are capable of ejecting 5,000 tons of water an hour. The object is, of course, to empty the vessel of water so that she will start rising by her own buoyancy. Once this starts, the wreck will be taken at each tide to shallower water until it is found possible to keep her on an even keel and float her normally.

This is the operation that will be performed on the Hindenburg which settled upright, her funnels and topmasts even now extending well above the level of the sea.

The Seydlitz, which is lying on her side, presents a different problem. She will not be pumped out until by combined action of tides and pontoons she is dragged to shallower water.

Giant Seaweed Hinders Work
The first effort at raising a vessel proved a failure. The destroyer V-70 had been partially raised and her masts and funnels removed. Heaving operations were then begun and the vessel lifted bodily seven feet when a chain snapped. Others followed. Only two wire straps held tight. The destroyer was allowed to sink back. In future, chains will be abandoned and wire straps used.

In working on the various ships the 12 divers now employed have encountered a monstrous sea-weed hitherto unknown in these waters. Its stalks are as thick as a man's wrists, have leaves 18 inches wide and trail 15 feet in length. To get at the portholes it was necessary for divers to slash their way through this veritable submarine jungle.

If the firm is successful with its first job, it may tackle the rest of the German fleet. It is estimated that it will take at least eight years to clear the harbor of all sunken ships.

ROCK FALLS TO RENT ELECTRIC CURRENT OF I. N. U.

Contract for 5 Years Beginning Sept. 1 Signed by City

Rock Falls—The Illinois Northern Utilities Co., and the City of Rock Falls, have signed a contract whereby the utilities company will supply the city with current for light and power after September 1.

The contract for a term of five years was signed at the last meeting of the city council, Manager Marvin representing the company, and the preliminary arrangements for carrying the line across the river were made during the week.

The power line will be carried from the power station at the government dam to the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad bridge and across the river on the bridge, thence to the Rock Falls power plant between the railroad and First Avenue bridges. At the plant, the current will be delivered to the city, and will be supplied by the city to its regular customers, using the present outgoing equipment from the city plant. In other words, the city discontinues generating the current, and rents the current instead.

As far as rates are concerned, this will not make any immediate difference, the city being able to rent current and supply it at least as cheaply, if not cheaper than it was generated in the city plant. It is hoped that the city will save something by making the change. The rate charged the city is the same charged to private consumers, depending upon the quantity the city buys. It may range anywhere from the maximum of 6 cents per kilowatt down. When a big quantity is used, it may get down to around 2 cents. The city rates have not been changed to consumers.

The city plant will be kept intact for emergency use. The usage of the utility's power will enable the city to expand its distributing system indefinitely without adding to the present boiler and generating capacity of its plant.

The current supplied from the Broadway power station will be a 2300 volt, three-phase service. This means that each of the three wires will be a phase and the one-way phase for lights, the two-way phase for old motors using that phase, and the three-way phase for modern motors over 7½ horsepower can all be served.

It was necessary to obtain a permit from the state, a permit from the United States government and a permit from the Burlington railroad before the company could run its supply cable across the river on the railroad bridge.

RADIOGRAPHS

Service is Most Important Thing in Growth of Radio

Next steps in the development of radio include greater attention to service in connection with the making and operation of sets.

Service is as important to radio as service and service stations have been in the development of the automobile industry, and in time will have as important an effect on the radio industry.

The extent of research and service work now done by leading manufacturers of radio apparatus is not generally realized. Progressive radio manufacturers who have established their business on a permanent basis, realize that to keep abreast with developments in radio, and to make a product which will give service and satisfaction, they must maintain efficient engineering and research departments.

An illustration of the increasing care with which new circuits and improvements in radio generally are tested out in laboratories before being placed on the market is afforded by the so-called reflex circuit, designed originally by Lator, a French inventor. One American manufacturer worked on the reflex principle for two years before publishing its circuit—two years of research and development before it could assure simplicity of construction and ease of operation. It paid them to be sure and not to hurry, and justify the public faith in them.

One well known manufacturer of amplifying transformers has built up his business by a service guarantee which means exactly what it says. In all of his advertising material, and in correspondence with customers, he states that his company does not consider a transaction complete until the ultimate user of parts or sets is satisfied with them and with the results.

When the big slump in the radio industry came following the boom a few summers ago, this particular manufacturer continued his advertising campaign and service facilities during the darkest summer which the radio industry has ever seen and at a time when the costs of the advertising were actually greater than his gross sales. When unscrupulous distributors and dealers were "getting out from under" quantities of poor apparatus as best they could, this manufacturer courageously carried on a campaign direct to the public through newspaper advertising which emphasized that his company would not lower its standards, and that its engineering and research department was interested in very customer and in protecting him from poor goods and poor service.

Now, more than ever, the public is demanding service. It has a right to, and a great many manufacturers and dealers are enlarging and strengthening their facilities to provide it.

Insurance on This Home Costs Less

Practically every company writing fire insurance recognizes the value of the DODD System of Lightning Protection.

They go further than to say it is good. Many of them make a reduction in the cost of insurance on houses protected by the DODD System.

This saving in itself will, in time, pay for your protection. But a greater satisfaction comes from the knowledge that your home and your family always are safe.

Let us tell you more about it.
